

Biennial Indian Drosophila Research Conference, InDRC

21-23 December 2015

Venue: Indian Institute of Technology Kanpur

Following the successful meeting at Banaras Hindu University in March 2014, the 2nd Biennial Indian Drosophila Research Conference (InDRC) will be held at Indian Institute of Technology Kanpur, between December 21-23, 2015 under auspices of the Indian Society of Developmental Biologists (ISDB). The meeting would display the range of research questions being addressed by a resurgent Indian Drosophila research community. Over 30 research investigators and including several young researchers will speak while a large number would present their results through posters and selected platform presentations - to engage in exchange of ideas, techniques and, finally, bond together. The meeting would particularly focus on presentations by doctoral and post-doctoral researchers besides dedicating special sessions on emerging technologies and new areas of translational biomedical research using the Drosophila model.
